Breuss Massage

The Breuss Massage is a gentle back massage that can dissolve emotional, energetic, and physical blockages. It initiates the regeneration of undernourished intervertebral discs and is the key to solving many problems in the musculoskeletal system, especially in the sacral region.

Foot reflexology Massage

Foot reflexology is based on the principle that each area of the body has a corresponding point on the foot. By specifically massaging these reflex zones, the therapy stimulates related areas and functions of the body.

Facial & Head Acupressure Massage

Head acupressure is based on the principles of acupuncture. It works by stimulating acupuncture points and distributing energy through the meridians in the neck, head, and chest areas. Blood and energy flow are enhanced, thereby normalizing circulation in the head. This massage has a beneficial effect on individuals suffering from headaches and/or migraine attacks.

Price	20'	CHF 60.-
-------	-----	----------

Manual Lymphatic Drainage

Manual lymphatic drainage is used as a therapy for edema and the decongestion of swollen areas, such as the arms and legs. Circular, shifting techniques, applied with gentle pressure, move fluid from the tissue into the lymphatic vessel system.

Price	60'	CHF 145.-

Fascia Treatment

The tissue surrounding the muscles, known as fascia, provides additional support to the body. However, it can become adhered due to lack of movement or stress, resulting in pain. In such cases, specialized fascia therapy is required. Fascia treatment is not considered a wellness procedure and may be painful.

Family offer

A massage caters to a wide range of needs, not only for adults but also for children. Families with children (up to 15 years old) are eligible for a 10% discount on treatments.

Naturopathy

Naturopathy

Western naturopathy combines traditional folk medicine and the insights of modern complementary medicine. Naturopathic practice is based on the understanding that the body, mind, and soul form a unified whole. For this holistic approach, the therapist employs a wide range of treatment methods, including kinesiology, craniosacral therapy, nutritional counseling, energy work, phytotherapy, homeopathy, as well as supportive manual therapy techniques.

The Oberon Diagnostic System

Between the individual cells of the body, there is a constant exchange of information, facilitated by specific frequencies using photons (light flashes). Disrupted cell communication leads to „disharmony,“ causing vague discomfort, reduced performance, and, over time, disturbances in organ function and pathological changes. The Oberon system „listens“ to the body, measures the vibrational structure of individual cells down to their molecular level, and compares the results with an extensive database. „Disharmonious“ frequencies are identified, and disease-causing factors such as bacteria, viruses, and allergens are detected and linked to the relevant medical symptoms.

Price	75'	CHF 230.-

Kinesiology

Kinesiology addresses imbalances in the energy field, such as body misalignments, learning difficulties, pain, and food intolerances. Applied kinesiology primarily utilizes muscle testing as its main diagnostic tool. The results of a properly conducted muscle test provide clear insights into any energy blockages the individual may be experiencing. Specific corrections are then applied to release these blockages, tailored to the individual's unique needs.

Price	60'	CHF 145.-

Craniosacrale Therapy

This therapy is particularly used for cranial complaints such as whiplash, stress, fatigue, headaches, migraines, dizziness, or sleep disturbances. The mobile structure of the skull bones (cranium) to the sacrum forms a unified system with the brain and spinal cord membranes over the spine, in which the cerebrospinal fluid pulsates rhythmically. This rhythm extends throughout the entire body. Disruptions in this area can have far-reaching consequences for the organism and influence overall health.

Dorn Method

The Dorn Method, named after its founder Dieter Dorn, is a therapeutic approach that helps alleviate back pain. The goal of this method is to realign the joints (such as the foot, knee, hip, vertebrae, etc.) to their original, correct positions.

Med Matrix: The Basic Therapy for Detoxification & Regeneration

This therapy consists of three synergistic treatments, each proven to support detoxification and regeneration:

- Direct Current Treatment - actively mobilizes toxins and waste products through the skin's surface.
- Pitch Stone Suction Massage - actively transports dissolved substances beneath the skin's surface.
- Bioresonance Therapy - neutralizing the eliminated toxins and balancing the connective tissue.

Honey Massage

In addition to its cleansing effects, the honey massage revitalizes and strengthens the entire organism. The use of honey helps „pump out“ old waste and toxins from deep within the body tissue. This treatment balances the flow of energy while simultaneously strengthening the nervous and immune systems.

Indian Head Massage

Pine Vital Massage

For the Pine Vital Massage, pine sticks of different lengths, shapes, and sizes are warmed up and used to massage the body. The comforting warmth of the wood, combined with pine massage oil, penetrates deeply into the muscles, improving circulation, promoting energy flow, and relieving tension and blockages. This massage activates the body's self-healing powers by increasing alpha brain waves. Additionally, Swiss stone pine has antibacterial, fungicidal, and antiseptic properties.

Lomi Lomi Nui

With an abundance of oil, the entire body is massaged using flowing, gentle, and firm strokes. The muscles are loosened, stretched, kneaded, and moved, allowing blockages to dissolve layer by layer. As a result, energy begins to flow freely again.

Pantha Jama | Herbal Stamp Massage

The warm oil (60°C) helps release the active ingredients from the herbal stamps, allowing them to fully activate and provide their therapeutic benefits. This treatment helps alleviate tension and blockages.

Hanra Body Sugaring

The HANRA Method gently and thoroughly removes hair along with the hair follicles. Over time, hair regrowth is reduced by up to 90%, and the hair becomes finer and lighter in color. Hair removal with HANRA sugar gel also acts as an exfoliant, removing dead skin cells and leaving the skin smooth. This method is less painful than waxing and other hair removal techniques, as the sugar gel adheres to the hair rather than the skin. Suitable for all skin types, HANRA is a Swiss natural product that contains no preservatives, chemicals, or resins. It is completely water-soluble, biodegradable, and cruelty-free.
